Miss Ida Packard and Mrs. Lillian Morgan were in Portland Saturday.

Miss Methel Packard is with her sister, Miss Ida Packard, at their home on Bridge Street.

Irving Cummings is making a good recovery from surgery at the Rumford Community Hospital.

Mrs. Minnie Richardson is spending some time with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hall, in Portsmouth, N. H.

The first blocks were laid the early part of this week for the new Bryant's IGA Market. Work is also being done on the parking lot adjacent to the building.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lothrop, of Lovell, called on friends in town last week end. The Lothrop's, who were residents of Bethel for a number of years, will be leaving Lovell shortly to make their home in Surrey, N. H.

Mrs. Leonard I. Pierce, who was recently appointed by Gov. Reed to the Board of Trustees of the University of Maine, has been in Portland this week attending a trustees meeting. Her daughter, Susie, has been staying with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cole during her mother's absence.

Mrs. Violet Campbell, Mayville, has gone to Herrick's nursing home, West Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Wallace of Freeport visited Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Chenier recently.

Visitors at H. S. Stanley's over the week end were, Donald Stanley and Ronald Tilton of South Portland and Dr. Fred Hanson of Las Cruces, New Mexico.

Larry Billings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Billings, is one of the lucky hunters in the area, having bagged a magnificent eight-point buck recently. He is a member of the sophomore class at Gould Academy.

Ray Crockett celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday last Thursday with a party at his home on Elm Street attended by Mrs. Crockett, and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Crockett and family. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crockett visited his parents last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rolfe are grandparents of twin boys born recently to their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bartlett, Marblehead, Mass. Mrs. Rolfe is spending some time with her daughter and family. The Bartletts have one other child, a daughter, Tamison, who celebrated her first birthday in October.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The latest leak in the West Bethel Water System has been located and repairs are now underway. It took about a week and a half to locate the leak but that isn't bad when compared to a previous leak that was not located for over a month. The present leak is just outside the storage tank. The water will have to be shut off at least half a day to make repairs. With the number of repairs and amount of maintenance necessary to keep the system operating, it is very doubtful if the system will ever pay for itself.

The snow fence is finally up and things are in pretty good shape for winter. The actual time putting up snow fence was no longer than usual but the rainy weather caused some delay.

Some of the streets have been patched that have needed it for quite a while. This is another job that was delayed by the wet weather. There are still several small jobs that have not been done but the major preparations for winter have been made and the smaller jobs can be worked in now.

Tax collections now total about 34% of the total commitment. The rate of payment has been very slow this past month. The percentage of the total commitment collected is about 10% less than for the same date one year ago. There will have to be a large increase in payments if the percentage of the commitment paid on Dec. 31 is to be equal to the 93% of the last two years.

LOCAL GIRL COMPLETING TEACHER-TRAINING AT SKIDMORE COLLEGE

Miss Dorothy Kimball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kimball of Albany, is one of five selected seniors at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., working in a Saratoga Springs school to complete their teacher training.

Four-fifths of their time is spent teaching regular classes under the supervision of a master teacher. The other one-fifth is spent conducting small-group study in remedial reading and accelerated science.

The five Skidmore seniors will spend seven weeks at the Division St. School and then begin a similar seven-week program at Caroline St. School.

NIGHTTIME IS DANGERTIME, SAY STATE POLICE

"Nighttime is dangertime!" warned the State Police. "From time immemorial," continued the enforcement group, "man has recognized the fact that nighttime is a time for redoubting caution. When the sun went down, early man became especially alert and cautious to guard himself against the perils of the dark."

The police pointed out that the wise driver will borrow a leave from primitive man's book. Realizing that the arrival of darkness greatly increases the possibility that he will become involved in a traffic crash, he will gear his driving habits to meet this additional threat to his safety.

"Over and above everything else," they added, "the intelligent driver will obey the cardinal rule of nighttime driving—he will never 'overdrive' his lights. In other words, he will always be able to stop within the distance lighted by his headlights."

"This type of individual," concluded the State Police, "will be, truly, a wise driver for he will be trimming the odds down more in his favor, giving himself a better chance to avoid the highway hazards which automatically increase with the coming of the dark."

Because of Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 28, The Citizen will be published Wednesday of next week. Contributors and advertisers are requested to submit copy at least one day earlier than is customary.

A high percentage of the pedestrian killed in traffic accidents are guilty of violating a safe walking practice, so it becomes very obvious that knowledge of, and obedience to, pedestrian laws is most important. The State Police advise us to comply with these laws which were passed for our protection.

PLAYERS PRESENTING 3-ACT COMEDY FRI-SAT. EVENINGS

"You Can't Take It With You," a comedy in three acts by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, will be presented on Friday and Saturday, at 8:00 p. m. at Odeon Hall, Bethel. Production by Bethel Players is being made by special arrangement with Dramatists Play Service, Inc.

Centered around the "extravagantly mad" Syeamore family, who throw their guests into great confusion by their antics, this play includes the following cast of characters: Penelope Syeamore, play-writing mother, Elsie Waldron; Essie Carmichael, her ballet-dancing daughter, Pat Hudson; Rheba, the colored maid; Dorothy Fadner; Paul Syeamore, Penny's husband, Robert Rensen; Mr. DePinna, a fireworks inventor, Earl McAllister; Ed Carmichael, Essie's husband, Thomas Fadner; Donald, Ed's pal, Clinton Jenkins; Grampa Vanderhof, head of the household, David Thompson; Alice Syeamore, his granddaughter, Bettyann Hastings; Henderson, member of the Internal Revenue Department, Roland Glines; Tony Kirby, Alice's fiancé, Alfred Charest; Boris Kolenkhov, Essie's mad-Russian dancing teacher, Jafar-Khan Devlet-Muraz; Gay Wellington, garish actress-type family friend, Elizabeth Smith; Mr. and Mrs. Kirby, Tony's dignified parents, James Fiske and Margaret Trinward; Three G-Men, Charles Farrar, Eldon Greenleaf and Richard Blake; Grand Duchess Olga Katrina, a remnant of Russian nobility, Margaret Bean.

Some tickets are still available and will be sold at the door as the supply lasts. However, there is still time to be assured of seats and buy your tickets in advance at Bosserman's Pharmacy or from any Bethel Player.

TOWNS SHOULD CELEBRATE

Two well known towns in the Bethel Area, Greenwood and Woodstock, are approaching their 150th anniversary. Woodstock should celebrate in 1965, Greenwood in 1966.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mason have closed their home on Church Street and are in Portland for the winter.

Following another car too closely on the highway is cheating—cheating ourselves of the leeway we'll need, if the other driver should stop suddenly. The State Police caution us to leave an extra margin between our car and the one ahead, thereby insuring ourselves of an extra margin of safety.

PTA MEETS-DISCUSS TEACHING METHODS

The Bethel Parent Teachers Association met Tuesday evening at the Crescent Park School. Mrs. Samuel Timberlake asked for help from the members of the PTA on a survey being carried out by the Health Council, concerning having another doctor in Bethel.

A nominating committee was appointed to nominate a new vice president to replace Mrs. Lee Swan, who has moved away. Members of the committee are: Mrs. Colleen Boyd, Stanley Davis, Mrs. Joan Chadbourn, and Melvin Olson. A committee to work with Dr. and Mrs. James Hudson on the Hootenanny in February was also chosen.

Chairman of the school board, Dexter Stowell, announced that the next board meeting will be Monday evening and welcomed any parents who wish to attend.

Mr. Stowell introduced Mrs. Bernice Noyes, Remedial Reading teacher, Mrs. Phyllis Cross, sub-primary teacher, and Mrs. Sally Bickford, a parent, who discussed the reading method used in the Bethel elementary schools. Mr. Emens, eighth grade teacher, and Mr. Berry, Gould mathematics teacher, also answered questions about the new modern math used in both schools.

ROSENBERG NAMED TO WOODSTOCK SCHOOL COM.

Peter Rosenberg of North Woodstock has been named by the Woodstock school committee to fill a vacancy on that board, created by the recent death of Mrs. Everett Howe.

Mr. Rosenberg, an employee of the Oxford Paper Company, has resided in Woodstock for seven years, moving there from Rumford. He attended Gould Academy prior to service with the ski troops in World War II. He is married and has five children, Edward, age 13, Arvid, 12, Donna, 10, Timothy, 8, and Michael, 2.

WEDNESDAY THANKSGIVING SERVICE

A special Thanksgiving service will be presented at the Bethel Methodist Church at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 27. The Junior and Senior Choirs of the church will present three musical anthems and the pastor will deliver a message entitled "The Other Nine." The public is invited to worship with the church and community as well as with their families during the Thanksgiving season.

SCHOOL NEWS

Miss Spencer, our school nurse, spent Tuesday testing first-grade students with the audiometer.

Mr. Hammond's seventh grade has been doing choral reading. They plan to demonstrate to some of the other classes this week.

Mrs. Lord's sixth grade want to thank Harry Buswell for his contribution to last week's art lesson. Harry brought the materials and taught the lesson.

Miss Varner and Mrs. Lord have reported that over two hundred books were sold at Crescent Park's book fair last week.

A net profit of over $100 was realized. This money will be spent for books for the library.

We wish to thank all who gave this fair such generous support.

The Maine Teacher's Association held a regular meeting at Bryant Pond Tuesday for the purpose of discussing educational legislation.

Miss Ballard, Mrs. Gunther, Mr. and Mrs. Bailey and Mr. Heino attended from Bethel.

Bethel School Committee will meet Monday evening at 8 P. M. at Crescent Park School.

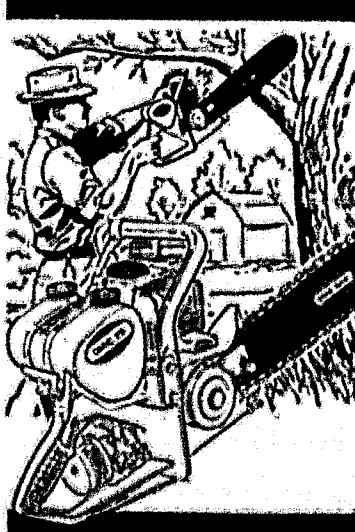

Immunizations will be offered to the students in the Bethel and Greenwood Schools in January and February 1964. Permission slips will be sent to the parents for signature prior to the clinic. It is not always possible to determine when certain boosters are due because some students have had them at some other facility, and therefore, they are not recorded on the school health record.

The following is offered as a guide to help parents determine when booster shots are needed: 1. Small-pox Re-vaccination every 5 years; 2. Diphtheria-tetanus booster injection every 4 years; 3. Polio-myelitis-booster injection every 2 years, recommended by the State of Maine department of Health and Welfare; 4. Students who have never been immunized need two injections of the diphtheria-tetanus, one month apart, followed by another in 6-12 months to complete the series.

Note: Re-vaccinations were not given at the Crescent Park School during the last school year because of various communicable diseases which were prevalent at that time. Parents wishing to have it done at this time will need to return a signed slip.

Important: A. Only well students should be immunized; B. Parents are urged to check in all instances of allergies or convulsions with their family doctor and make a note on the permission slip. C. All students with eczema, burns or other skin conditions should not be vaccinated for small-pox unless cleared with family physician.

SOUTHERN EDITOR
AWARDED BOWDOIN PRIZE

A warning that the white people of the West must help lead the way to political and economic justice for the dark-skinned men and women of the globe before it is too late was sounded at Bowdoin College by Hodding Carter on October 31.

"The whispers of the non-whites are rising to the angry shouting of many hundreds of millions," the noted Mississippi editor, publisher and author declared.

His remarks came as he was awarded the Bowdoin Prize, the College's most distinctive non-academic honor, at a special convocation held in Pickard Theater, Memorial Hall, on the Bowdoin campus.

The Prize, conferred once every five years on the Bowdoin alumni or Faculty member judged to have made the most distinctive contribution in any field of human endeavor, was presented to Mr. Carter by President James S. Coles of Bowdoin. The selection committee is composed of the Presidents of Harvard and Yale Universities, and the Chief Justice of the Maine Supreme Court.

The Prize citation, read by President Coles in traditional ceremonies, honored Mr. Carter for "his distinctive contribution through his outstanding service to his nation and his fellow men."

An Overseer of Bowdoin and a member of the class of 1927, Mr. Carter has won many honors for his eloquent advocacy of reason in seeking solutions for the race problems of his homeland. In 1946 he was awarded a Pulitzer Prize for his editorials in his newspaper, the Greenville, Miss., Delta Democrat-Times.

Mr. Carter is the seventh distinguished son of Bowdoin to receive the Prize, which this year amounts to some $5,700. The Prize was established in 1933 as a memorial to William J. Curtis, LL.D., of Bowdoin's Class of 1875, by his wife and children.

"Unless the Western white man can accommodate politically and economically to the pressures of the dark-skinned people and help lead the way now, we will certainly not lead a generation hence," Mr. Carter asserted. "Even elemental self-survival demands the white man's recognition of the aspirations of submerged and angry people and assistance in attaining the attainable."

In his address, entitled "Concerning Five Journeys," Mr. Carter described his struggle for understanding and sympathy toward the disenfranchised, misery-laden millions of the earth. The "Journeys" of his title were his experiences in this country and abroad which brought to light his own early prejudices and opened his eyes, he said, to the plight of the racially victimized of the United States, Europe, the Middle East, Asia and Africa.

His first journey, the noted editor said, "began in a small Louisiana town 40 years ago last month and continued for four years in a small college in a small town in New England." He was 16 then, "a Southerner with all, or almost all, of the traditional Southern attitudes, folk beliefs and prejudices" which he brought to Bowdoin. The prejudices he found at the college among other students made him begin "to worry about my own."

Paying tribute to Bowdoin's Faculty and students, many of whom helped him change his beliefs, Mr. Carter said "By the time I received my diploma my ideas of relationships among human beings were already such as to render me more than a little suspect in the Louisiana to which I returned."

He is convinced, he stated, that "the most important gift I received from Bowdoin was not what I learned here but what I began to unlearn here. Unlearning is more difficult than learning and is useful to those of us—we are legion—who whose minds have been clouded and whose hearts have been hardened by the old and accustomed prejudices."

His second journey, which lasted for five years, took Mr. Carter as an Army officer during World War II to the Middle East and North Africa.

There, he said, "for the first time I discovered... the plight of hopeless dark-skinned people and abused as to appear to be so impoverished and exploited and festered sub-humans."

He saw "the typhus victims of Egypt, dying or dead, unnoticed, in the streets of Cairo where at night the barely living tried to sleep on the pavement until the hungry dawn... the starving Arabs of the slums and desert fringes of an Algeria, shot down, of necessity, by allied troops guarding a garbage dump whose discarded, tainted beef would otherwise have claimed more victims than did the bullets... the small, dark-eyed girl children offered for pennies by their mothers and brothers."

"Here," Mr. Carter said, he "began to ask myself and others what would victory mean for those broken folk and what would they attempt if victory brought them nothing. Today we know."

His third journey, six years later, was to the countries of Southeast Asia, "where the desolation of the masses was more brutish still." He was forewarned, he stated, for what he had seen during the war "impelled me to a contempt and mistrust greater than I had known before for the racist and those who look the other way."

In Asia, he "discovered first hand the understandable world-wide intrusion of Communism with its belly and vengeance appeal." In India he was "hoaxed, time and again by fanatic young Communists as I spoke in the teeming universities whose diplomas spelled frustration."

In Burma, Malaya, and the Philippines, Mr. Carter said, he witnessed the thin "victories" against Communist guerrilla forces. He was not allowed to enter "French Indo-China, where the handwriting was already on the wall, or an Indonesia in ferment."

"Asia," the Bowdoin Prize winner declared, "stirring in hate turmoil, was not a reassuring place to be. Asia is worse convulsed today."

His fourth journey, four years ago, was to South Africa, where he, his wife and two young sons lived for four months. "In South Africa," he said, "we met spokesmen of each of the unreconciled groups of that beleaguered land—the Dutch-descended whites, the multiracial Coloreds, the Indians, the Malays, and the preponderant black Africans."

"There is little love in South Africa," Mr. Carter said. "There is an omnipresent sense of doom of the old ways."

"Throughout Africa—and even in the United Nations—there is wicked talk that white South Africans should be and will be run into the sea, a feat which would take a great deal of doing. To this goal I cannot subscribe. These stubborn white men are resolute and industrious; and the nation which the white minority created and dominates deserves to survive what ever the failures and shortsightedness of the white man in his treatment of the black majority."

"It was in South Africa that we first fully realized the implications of being a small minority of the world's people—as we whites are—and that the whispers of the non-whites are rising to the angry shouting of many hundreds of millions."

The last of Mr. Carter's journeys, he said, was not one he had made himself. "Instead," he stated, "this was a pilgrimage by an obscure and perhaps unbalanced man named William Moore, a letter carrier from Maryland."

Moore, the noted newsmen said, "planned to walk through the Deep South and, in his native Mississippi, speak to her governor of fair play and of love of one's fellow man. But William Moore never reached Mississippi. In a mean and lonely part of Alabama he was shot to death with a rifle as he walked the highway. One man was arrested. A grand jury refused to take action."

Mr. Carter said his 28-year-old son, now acting editor of the Delta Democrat-Times, "wrote an editorial about the murder. I would like to read it... not because of parental pride but because there are many more in the South who think as he

THE EDITOR...

November 18, 1963

Dear Mr. Editor:

The three-column advertisement in your November 12th issue, purchased by the Co-ordinating Committee for Fundamental American Freedom, has brought the whole civil rights conflict right into your homes. It tries to influence you into taking action to defeat the Civil Rights Act of 1963. It asks you to write to your Senators and Congressman to persuade them to vote against the Act.

It is very easy to refute every statement of the advertisement except one. I do not think that is necessary with you, for you need simply make your decision on moral, humanitarian and religious grounds, if, however, you want to know more about the reason for the Act, there are numerous good books on the subject, and many articles in your encyclopedias, all of which will tell you that racism and slavery invariably destroy the people who practice them.

The one assertion of the Committee with which I can agree is that there will be a loss of freedom for some, but not for you. The racist will lose his "freedom" to reject other men on the basis of color.

It is ironic that you should be asked to write to your Senators, because one of them is co-sponsor of this legislation. Not only has Senator Muskie committed himself by leading in civil rights, but he has promised to vote for cloture if necessary. If it is conceivable that any of the people of Oxford County are unsure of themselves, and if it comes to placing faith in a man for the stand he takes, nothing more need be said than that you know Senator Muskie. Do you know Mr. Loeb of Manchester, N. H.? Perhaps, then, a letter to a friend in Manchester is in order.

During the coming year, the real battleground for justice will come into focus and we'll see it, not as in Birmingham or Danville, but as in the minds of men where justice will have to fight against fear. I wish that it were certain that justice would win, but this is going to be a terrible struggle until every man of good will realizes that he is involved. What Mr. Loeb has accomplished is to show us that there can be no neutrals. If the Civil Rights Act is defeated as he wants, that frustration may well be the fuse that changes a peaceful revolution into a violent one.

Sincerely yours,
Charles L. Pendleton
Minister

does. Unlike myself and my contemporaries, he and they have had relatively little unlearning to do.

"In homes and churches and colleges and universities throughout the South bigotry is being challenged as was mine at Bowdoin 40 years ago."

The editorial said in part "Not race or creed, but our common humanity, impelled William Moore on his way with his message to a governor which was never delivered. He was struck down by a man or men who have another quality all men share in greater or less degree: a callous disdain for the sanctity of their fellow man."

It is not sacrilegious to say that William Moore's murder was a symbolic crucifixion which all of us should note well... William Moore's death was senseless; his journey was not." Mr. Carter said "Reading this editorial, I cannot feel helpless. The small candles flame even while man plans to penetrate the shadows of the moon."

"We of the South are not all racists, any more than are all our fellow citizens of the United States. We who are whites are not inevitably doomed because of our color. Nor are our dark-skinned fellows doomed for-

Thursday evening, November 14th, my father and I attended the Oxford County Area Development meeting. Of the thirty-four communities in Oxford county less than half were represented. I felt a disappointment that more weren't there to hear the guest speaker, Mr. Chennell of Portland. However, when the meeting was over I felt that maybe I could understand why more members weren't interested enough to attend.

The whole subject of the meeting and discussion period was the development of the county economy thru obtaining new industries and helping those already established in the county. I feel, and I am sure others feel likewise, that an overemphasis is being made on this phase of Oxford County Area Development. Three or four areas in the county are concerned with industrial development: namely, the Rumford-Mexico area, South Paris-Norway area, Fryeburg and Bethel. There are some towns near those areas that would be adversely affected by new industries that would locate in larger towns. The small town would get some of the workers families settled there and have the increased costs of schools and services without much increase in tax revenue. If you want to understand what I mean, from a town official's viewpoint, talk with some of the town officers from smaller towns in the Portland area.

I feel that county wide RECREATIONAL Development needs more planning and county wide area promotion. That would affect the economy of every town. Some, more than others of course, but it would aid all. Nearly every town in the county has at least one pond, lake or stream where there is seasonal property that pays taxes. Mr. Cushman of Woodstock had figures at that meeting to show that summer residents pay nearly 20 percent of the tax in his town. What is the percentage in your town? What percentage of the economy of your town (hotels, motels, lodging houses, tenting areas, ski areas) depends on vacationists? And how much of the store trade and filling station trade and real estate dealers' business is with tourists and vacationists?

I believe a comprehensive survey within the county of just our recreational development and the possibilities should be undertaken. Then it should be followed by a county-wide planning meeting to cover at least the following points:

1. How to inform more people about our area.
2. Information on accommodations.
3. Information on their entertainment and recreational facilities.
4. What improvements we could make to attract more vacationists.
5. A study of legislative matters that would benefit recreational development.

The Second Grade Brownies met Tuesday, Nov. 19, at our leader's home. Kathy Haskell was treasurer. Ellen Clark led us in a game. We covered boxes and put on a design. We had our goodnight circle. — Secretary, Milt Wheeler.

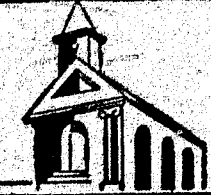

One of the really grave hazards to winter drivers is REDUCED VISIBILITY. The State Police join the National Safety Council in recommending that windshields be kept clean at all times—inside and outside. Wipers should be kept in A-1 condition. If you find that they are leaving a streaky surface, have them carefully checked. Remember, we must see danger to avoid it.

ever to the sub-human existence against which they protest in blood—their blood and ours." "But I do know that all of us have much unlearning yet to do if the human race is to survive its venia for cruel mischiefs and arrogance and destruction."

20 SECONDS with the NAZARENE

God dwells not only in the high heaven and the majestic sanctuary, but in the heart of man as well. Paul, writing to Corinthian Christians, declared: "...you are the temple of God." Christ, entering Jerusalem, found that the Temple needed to be purified; "...entering the temple of my heart, what need does He see?..."

- Mrs. C. A. Judkins, Cor. -

Fred and Cedric Judkins attended the Oxford County area development meeting at Norway last week.

The Gould Academy students, Judy Judkins, Dwight and Diane Williamson, were home for the week end. Judy is on the certificate honor roll this ranking period.

Lucien and Andre Bernier, who are attending school in Waterville, were here for the week end. They visited overnight Saturday with their grandparents.

Four men from Exeter, N. H., are spending this week at Hayes' hunting camp and hunting in New Hampshire. Also Michael Sanatrosso and party of southern New Hampshire are staying at his camp while hunting. Also there are other New Hampshire people staying at their camps in town while hunting since the New Hampshire season has opened.

It was learned Tuesday of this week of the death of Frank Allen, a former resident of this town.

It is understood that the state of New Hampshire has leased an area bordering on Lake Umbagog and will develop it for a picnic area and build a launching pad.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Judkins and family of Rumford Point were Sunday afternoon guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Judkins.

SAFETY SIGNALS

Over 15 million American hunters will take to the woods this Fall. Here are some simple safety precautions for you to follow during hunting season. They come from shooting experts at Remington Arms Company:

Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. Never point it at anything you do not want to shoot.

Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun. And do not shoot at a flat hard surface, or at the surface of water.

C. B. NOTES

The Bethel CB Monitors held their regular meeting Monday evening at the Firemen's Room. There were 21 present.

John Morgan of Norway was present and explained the purposes of the New England CB Council of which he is president. Mr. Morgan stated that the Council provides an area wide organization to represent CBers in matters with the FCC and as a distribution facility for current FCC doctrine. He also emphasized that Citizens Band was a cooperative system, the abuse of which could bring about more stringent federal controls.

The local Civil Defense and Public Safety Director, Stephen Jacobs, was present and expressed his appreciation of the club's cooperation in communications at the time of the high water of Nov. 7.

CB Monitors voted to join the NECB Council. Errol Donahue was selected as delegate to at-
